Overwatch McCre In-Depth Guide by SHITBEARDTHEPIRATEHey all,I decided to put together a detailed guide on playing my favorite offensive character in the game, McCre. McCre is currently viewed as one of the top damage-dealers in the meta, and is being used very frequently in tournaments.Neutral GamePrimary Weapon -McCre's gun is the Peacekeeper, a standard revolver which can fire off 6 shots before needing to be reloaded. You can fire off one shot at a time and deal up to a maximum of 70 damage to the body, and 140 damage to the head. The Peacekeeper has a falloff damage point which is right here. Hitting opponents at this range will still deal the maximum amount of damage, but the further you or your enemies move away, the less damage you'll deal. You wanna keep your enemies at medium/close range, as that's where McCre is deadliest.The Peacekeeper can also be 'fan fired', meaning McCre will empty the entire magazine almost immediately at the cost of accuracy. This is devastating when used at close range, and can deal up to a maximum of 420 damage,making it capable of killing almost every hero in the game.. Even though fanning the hammer isn't accurate, you shouldn't worry too much because even landing just half the bullets in your chamber is still strong enough of killing over half the roster. Keep in mind that when using Fan Fire, the bonus to precision damage does not apply, even if you do actually hit your enemy in the head. No matter what, each bullet when fan firing will deal a maximum of 70 damage, so your goal when fan firing should just be to make sure you hit with as many bullets as possible, ideally aiming at the center of mass on your enemy.AbilitiesStarting off with the Flashbang. Let's you throw a flashbang at your enemies which can deal up to 25 damage, as well as stun them for exactly 1 second. Stunned enemies get stopped dead in their tracks, and even though 1 second doesn't sound very long, it's just long enough to let you fan the hammer and get a quick kill. This is a crazy effective combo and should be your bread & butter when playing McCre: flashbang to stun, then fan the hammer. The range on flashbang is quite short, so get used to the range and use it in close quarters situations. The flashbang can hitstun multiple enemies if they're close. Cooldown time on the flashbang is 10 seconds.Combat Roll: Lets you do a quick roll in any direction you choose. Great for closing the gap on enemies to put them in flashbang range, and to quickly get out of dangerous situations. Using the combat roll will also instantly reload your Peacekeeper, making it possible for McCre to fan the hammer, combat roll for a quick reload, and then fan the hammer again. This lets you put heavy damage on enemy tanks that get too close to you. Cooldown time on the combat roll is 8 seconds.Using the Combat Roll and the Flashbang together is damned effective. If an enemy is relatively nearby, you can Combat Roll up to them, flashbang, and Fan Fire for the kill. If they're already very close to you, you can lead off with the flashbang, fan fire for the kill, then combat roll right away for the instant reload, in case there are more enemies right nearby. This is what makes McCre so deadly in close quarters and 1v1 situations.McCre's Ultimate - DeadeyeDeadeye is kind of a high risk high reward Ultimate. Once activated, your HUD will slowly start targeting all enemies currently in your line of sight, represented by a small circle. You'll be in this trance for a maximum of 6 seconds, or until you either cancel the ultimate, or pull the trigger to fire. If you wait long enough, you'll see red skulls appear over your enemies, meaning that if you pull the trigger right then and there, you'll shoot them for a guaranteed kill.The time it takes for the red skull to appear on an enemy depends on how much health they have.Enemies with more health take longer to target - Demonstration, 4 Roadhogs, full healthEnemies with low health are targeted very quickly - Demonstration, 4 Tracers, 10 health eachDeadeye technically does have a range limit, but the maps are designed in such a way that it's probably something you'll never have to worry about when playing McCre.Pulling the trigger on Deadeye before your enemies are fully targeted means that you'll still shoot them, but for a lot less damage, depending on how quickly you pulled the trigger. If you die while using Deadeye, or you decide to cancel it at any time, your Ultimate will be reset back to being 50% charged. Your best bet is to use Deadeye from locations where your enemy might not notice you right away, or in combination with other hero's abilities (Reinhardt's Barrier, Zarya's Graviton Surge, Lucio's Sound Barrier, etc). It's also important to know that activating Deadeye will reload your peacekeeper.MatchupsAt the end of the day, McCre is a greco offensive character who fights best in close quarters, and has the ability to challenge and beat other heroes who also fight up close. Reaper, Tracer, Winston, Mercy, Lucio, Reinhardt, and Roadhog can get quickly brought down by McCre in close quarters. You can also make short work of Genji, but be very careful because he can use his deflect to bounce back McCre's flash bang and fan fire. Make sure to be careful of players who excel when fighting at long ranges, like Widowmaker, Hanzo, and Bastion. Pairing McCre with a tank like Winston is usually a good idea, as Winston can easily counter Widowmaker and Hanzo, helping to clear the way for everyone's favorite cowboy. Genji is also capable of edging out Widowmaker, Bastion, and Hanzo, and makes a good pairing. Hey everyone! In today's Overwatch guide, I will talk about Cassidy, formerly known as McCre who is one of the Overwatch heroes that seem extremely simple to pick up (and he is) but very hard to master and actually be useful with him. I'm a professional Overwatch booster here at Boosting Factory and Cassidy is a hero I often use during my boosts, this is why I decided to share some of the knowledge with you. Without further ado, let's start! About Cassidy Cole Cassidy, a 38-year-old gunslinger is, like I said, a simple hero with not many secret strategies and techs. This makes him very easy to pick up by players who come from other shooter games such as Valorant or Call of Duty. However, in order to actually be useful with Cassidy, it takes practice and some tips that I'm going to share below. Cassidy has 200 HP himself and has no self-sustain abilities which make him a squishy but deadly hero. His shots deal 35-70 damage (70 if you're within 20 meters) which means that he can three-shot a squishy like him, or two shots if one was a headshot. His secondary fire is called Fan the Hammer (RCLICK) is a burst type of damage but with a shorter range and harder to control. Essentially it fires the remaining bullet in the 6 bullet magazine. It's most often used against lower HP targets like Tracer, Genji, or Baby D.Va after the Flashbang combo and more rarely against tanks. His first out of three abilities is Combat Roll. When used, he rolls 7.2 meters in a direction he's currently moving in and it also reloads his gun instantly. It has a cooldown of 6 seconds. This ability is usually used in either defensive or offensive way. To dodge something such as Reinhardt's charge or a similar ability. Run to cover, reposition, and so on, or offensively to close the gap between you and your enemy, set up a flashbang, and pick up a kill. There's a good combo you can do against higher HP targets by doing a Fan the Hammer > Combat Roll > Fan the Hammer because roll reloaded your magazine. The second Cassidy's ability is Flashbang. It allows him to throw a grenade that stuns the enemy with very little delay. It explodes either when it hits an enemy, surface, wall, or travels a certain distance. It's on a 10-second cooldown. The most popular combo is Flashbang > Fan the Hammer, however, make sure to know that targets that have more than 200 HP could survive your combo, and then you're stuck. Therefore, try the Flashbang > Fan The Hammer > Roll > Fan the Hammer combo for such enemies. The final ability is Cassidy's ultimate called Deadeye. Cassidy stands still and starts scanning for enemies in his line of sight. After pressing fire again or the ability expires (6.2 seconds) it instantly kills all enemies in line of sight. A very powerful ultimate however tricky to use because you need to stand still, therefore, very easy to die or get interrupted. It's also not easy to kill any mobile enemies that will simply hide when you ult because of the infamous "It's high noon". Therefore, it's best to use the ult in one of few ways. First, one being literally picking up a kill on one or two targets such as enemy Mercy or Genji that are not in a position to deny you or hide from you. Another way is when you get an insane team CC ult from a friendly Zarya or Sigma and then you can pick up more than 1 or 2 kills. And thirdly, you can use it simply to zone people, people will hide from your ult buying your team a couple of seconds of free movement. You can stay behind a shield of a friendly Reinhardt for example while charging up your ult. However, if enemies are standing behind such a shield they might not get one shot because the shield is blocking, it's worth noting that the longer you charge up the ultimate, the more damage it does. Cassidy is, like I said, very squishy, therefore any positioning mistakes will be capitalized by your enemy and quite easily. You need to stay back and rarely expose yourself to the whole enemy team but rather only 1 or few heroes that you want to kill should have a direct line of sight to you, therefore, angles are the key. Stick with your healers and shields and shoot whoever you can if you don't have a plan, focusing on targets closer to you to avoid falloff damage. Do not shoot by holding a left click, if you're just spamming bullets, you won't improve your aim. Shoot deliberately and calmly. However, spamming the left click against tanks/shields is a good idea if that's your only option. Take a look at this aim improvement video by one of our pro coaches Sky. Thank you for reading my Cassidy guide and I hope you learned something! I would also like to take a minute of your time to tell you about our Overwatch boosting service where a pro player like me can help you reach any SR you like. We can also help you do your placements or even get you to the Top 500. This is doable in both account shared mode where a player like me would play on your account, but also you can for a little more money play with us and get it yourself.
